PURSUANT to the provisions of the following resolution passed May 20, 1875, the History, By-Laws and Regulations of the HARRISBURG CEMETERY ASSOCIATION have been revised and corrected to the 1st day of June, A. D. 1876, a period of thirty-one years since the dedication of the Cemetery:

"Resolved, That the Secretary be authorized to have prepared a new edition of the Laws and By-Laws relating to the Cemetery Association, together with an historical sketch of the origin and dedication of the Cemetery, and have 1000 copies printed at the least possible cost: Provided, That no expense shall attend the preparation of the same."

JNO. A. SMULL, Secretary.

H I S T O R Y.

In the autumn of 1843 the following paper was drafted by HENRY BUEHLER, Esq., and presented to the gentlemen who have subscribed the same in the order of their signatures. After a number of meetings on the subject contemplated, JAMES M'CORMICK, Esq., consented to be considered as one of the original subscribers, and is named in the law incorporating the association, although his signature is not affixed to the subjoined:

We, the undersigned, hereby agree (provided ten responsible persons join in the proposition) to purchase and enclose from ten to fifteen acres of land, in the vicinity of the borough of Harrisburg, for the purpose of establishing a public cemetery; the location, price, &c., to be approved of by a majority of the ten. After the incorporation of a company for the purpose, we will agree to convey to the constituted authorities thereof, the said land, with the provision that it be laid off into suitable burial lots, both for congregations and for individual families; and that a title be made to each of the ten persons hereby associated, for one family burial lot, free of any expense,* the choice thereof to be made prior to any sales, and to be made in the order of the signatures hereto; and also, that the remainder of the lots be sold, from time to time, to such persons as may desire to purchase. The original cost, with interest, to be paid to the ten purchasers out of the proceeds of the first sales, and that the proceeds of all sales thereafter, in all time to come, be applied exclusively to the improvement of the cemetery grounds, or roads leading thereto. Witness our hands and seals at Harrisburg, the 16th day of October, 1843.

*NOTE.—This provision was subsequently abandoned by the members of the corporation, who are the persons named, and each member consented to pay for the lot selected for himself, in the same manner, and on the same terms, that strangers were required to pay, reserving only to themselves the right of selection before sale, in the order in which their names appear.

The following extracts from the minutes of the proceedings of the association, will show the commencement and progress of their operations:

At a meeting of the gentlemen associated for the purpose of establishing a cemetery in the vicinity of Harrisburg, October 30, 1843, at the house of HENRY BUEHLER, Esq., the meeting was organized by appointing HENRY WALTERS, Esq., Chairman, and JOHN ROBERTS, Esq., Secretary; when, on motion, it was

Resolved, That a committee of four be appointed, for the purpose of ascertaining locations suitable for the purposes of a cemetery, and the prices at which the land may be obtained; and that the committee report to a meeting of the association, to be held on Monday evening two weeks from this date.

Whereupon the chairman appointed JOHN ROBERTS, DR. LUTHER REILY, VALENTINE HUMMEL and HAMILTON ALRICKS, Esqrs., a committee for that purpose.

The committee appointed at the previous meeting reported on November 13, 1843, two pieces of ground, suitable for the purposes of a cemetery; one on the hill of WILLIAM ALLISON, and the other being parts of the lands of HENRY HERR, JOHN SEALES and JOHN P. SHOOP; when, on motion, it was

Resolved, That the committee on the subject be requested to make drafts or plots of the grounds necessary for the contemplated cemetery, including the dell on the line of HERR and SEALES's property, showing the quantity of lands desired from each, and also a plot of the ALLISON property, and report to a meeting of the association, on Friday afternoon next, at two o'clock; and that the association then visit the grounds under contemplation.

Surveys of the contemplated grounds having been made, and plots thereof exhibited to the association, November 25, 1843, it was, on motion of Mr. BUEHLER,

Resolved, That DR. REILY, JUDGE BUCHER and HAMILTON ALRICKS, Esq., be a committee to contract on the best terms possible, for the purchase of the plot of ground as laid down in the report of the committee on the subject, including the lands of Messrs. HERR, SEALES and SHOOP; which said plot is hereby approved and adopted for the cemetery; and that said committee be requested to call a meeting of the association, for the purpose of receiving their report, when they may be ready to make the same.

In pursuance of an order of the Court of Quarter Sessions, a road having been laid out through a part of the grounds contemplated to be purchased of Messrs. HERR, SEALES and SNOOR, before any thing definitive had been agreed on between the parties, it induced an alteration in the views of the association; and it was agreed to purchase the ground for the cemetery of HENRY HERR alone. Accordingly on the 27th November, 1844, more than a year after the adoption of the foregoing resolution, the following agreement was entered into with HENRY HERR:

"HENRY HERR, of Susquehanna township, Dauphin county, Pennsylvania, hereby agrees to sell to the subscribers, citizens of Harrisburg, in said county, for the purposes of a cemetery, a part of his mansion farm, in said township and county; adjoining lands of JOHN P. SNOOR, JOHN SEALES, Gen. JOHN FORSTER, and others, and his other land, and surveyed and laid down on a draft by JOHN ROBERTS, containing eleven acres and one hundred and fifty perches; and will convey the same to them, or with their consent to a corporation, for the purpose aforesaid, on or before the 1st day of March, 1845. In consideration whereof, we, the subscribers, hereby agree to pay to the said HENRY HERR, or his heirs, the sum of one thousand five hundred and seventy-one dollars, to be paid in annual payments, without interest, to wit: Five hundred and thirty-four dollars on the 1st day of March, 1846; five hundred and seven dollars on the 1st day of March, 1847; five hundred and thirty dollars on the 1st day of March, 1848; and the purchasers are to make and keep up a lawful fence between the land purchased by them and HENRY HERR's other land, and allow said HENRY HERR to take all his fence to his own use, which now is on said land; and also to pay ten dollars cash towards executing the deed. Witness the hand and seal of HENRY HERR, of the first part, and the hands and seals of the subscribers, of the second part, this 27th day of November, A. D. 1844.

Harrisburg Cemetery Association.

At a meeting of the association, Dee. 30, 1844, it was

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to draft a charter for the association, to be submitted to the eonsideration of the board.

Whereupon the President appointed Messrs. JAMES M'CORMICK, HAMILTON ALRICKS, and JOHN ROBERTS, a eommittee for that purpose ; and

Resolved, That a eommittee of three be appointed to furnish a plot of the ground preparatory to laying out the same.

Whereupon Mr. ROBERTS, Mr. WALTERS and Mr. BUEHLER were appointed that committee.

At a subsequent meeting the committee above stated, reported a charter for the association, whieh, with an amendment, was adopted and submitted to the Legislature for enactment, and which was passed into a law, without alteration, on the 14th of February, 1845.

At a meeting of the association, Mareh 25, 1845, being the first after the enactment of the charter of incorporation, at the office of HAMILTON ALRICKS, Esq., present HENRY WALTERS, HENRY BUEHLER, JAMES PEACOCK, HAMILTON ALRICKS, VALENTINE HUMMEL, WILLIAM DOCK, HERMAN ALRICKS and JOHN ROBERTS, who all executed the bonds to HENRY HERR, for the lands of the eemetery, and authorized the Secretary to call on those not present, for their signatures, and when obtained, to deliver the bonds and receive from Mr. HERR the deed for the land, execuated on the 15th instant. The assoeiation then proceeded to organize under their charter, and appointed HENRY WALTERS President and JOHN ROBERTS Seeretary and Treasurer.

On September 27, 1845, the improvements being in a sufficient state of forwardness to warrant a sale, it was

Resolved, That Tuesday next, being the 30th inst., be appointed for the dedication of the grounds as a cemetery, and that the several elergy of the borough be invited to participate in the ceremony; and that the Secretary be requested to inform them of the purport of this resolution.

The 30th September, 1845, being the day appointed by the association for the dedieation of the cemetery, a large eoncourse of people attended on the ground to witness the ceremony, when a very impressive and appropriate prayer was made by the Rev. JOHN F. MESICK, D. D., and the following eloquent address delivered by the Rev. WM. R. DEWITT, D. D.:

"It is to me, my hearers, a source of deep regret, that the Rev. Brother, to whom the service of addressing you on this interesting occasion was assigned, is not present to perform it; and it is a source of still deeper regret, that I have been called to perform it with so little time for preparation.

"It seems to me peculiarly befitting and proper that these grounds, so beautifully located, and so beautifully prepared, should be set apart as a repository for our dead with appropriate solemnities, and that the occasion should be improved in calling up those solemn and tender associations, which are so intimately connected with the burying ground of the earthly remains of the departed.

"Henceforth this is to be no ordinary place. To-day we set apart these grounds from the common purposes of life, and devote them as the abode of the dead. Let them, from this time, be sacred to SORROW, to AFFECTION, and to MEMORY.

"Within the shade of this grove will be often assembled mournful and weeping groups, bearing with them the precious remains of departed friends, seeking for them some sacred and hallowed depository, 'till that morning that shall claim their redemption from the tomb.

"Here will the sigh of the disconsolate, and the moan of the anguished heart be often heard. And here, when time has softened grief, will the mourner often wander in the stillness of the evening, to commune with the remembrance of departed affection, and mingle his plaintive sighs with the low whispers of the summer's breeze. These sods, so fresh and green, upon which the dews of Heaven have so gently fallen, and sparkled in the glow of the morning's sun, will be watered with the tears of the bereaved, as they weep over the graves of those they loved. Here will affection and friendship rear their monuments, to perpetuate the memory of the departed, and form the connecting link between the visible and the invisible—the material and the spiritual—the temporal and the eternal.

"Here, brethren, will soon be found our last abode on earth. We are, this day, preparing the place for our own graves; where these bodies shall repose in hope, when the cares, the toils and the sorrows of earth have ended—and when our spirits have winged their flight to other worlds.

"The stage of human existence will, indeed, continue to be thronged with actors. But generation after generation will disappear from the busy pursuits of life, and here find their narrow and lonely dwellings—dust shall mingle with its kindred dust. The habitations of the dead shall become more populous than the living—and the grave will continue insatiable, until the time of its destruction shall come, when they that dwell in the dust of the earth shall sing—for their dew shall be as the dew of herbs.

"My hearers, there is a propriety in selecting retired and appropriate grounds like these, and beautifying them for the abode of the dead; for the grave is the connecting link, at least, in our associations with the spirits of those that have departed this world.

"Those spirits we believe exist—exist in conscious being;—and there is deep in laid in the constitution of our natures, the impression that some mysterious tie still binds them to their dust, while it reposes in hope; that they are permitted to visit the place of its deposit, and that there, especially, the living may hold communion with those whose affection and whose friendship were once the sweetest earthly solace of their existence.

"Such sentiments have almost universally prevailed, and hence the regard and the veneration which has ever been paid to the remains of the deceased. No east has been spared to preserve them safe and inviolate; and no indignity has been regarded as too great to be heaped upon those who would desecrate their sacred abode. It is this which has ever invested the grave with a peculiar solemnity and dread. And from hence have arisen those popular superstitions, which have peopled the grave yard with spectres and ghosts, visitants from the invisible world. We shall not enter into an examination of the question, whether, indeed, the spirits of the departed ever assume a visible form and appear to the living; nor weigh the force of the moral evidence that may be adduced in favor of the affirmative, against the teachings of philosophy, which are all against the supposition.

"But, brethren, though we may never have seen the spirits of the departed, who is there that has stood in the stillness of the twilight, or when the moon beams have fallen softly around him, at the grave of departed affection, but has felt his mind awed, as though conscious that he was standing on the very confines of the spirit world, and that around him was hovering the invisible spirit of the one whose dust was reposing at his feet, while upon him is bent the intense gaze of a deep and holy affection?

“While I am convineed that there is nothing in such an impression that contravenes the word of God—whether illusory or not, I love to cherish it. I love to feel, what seems to me, its sacred, its hallowed influence.

“If it be nothing more than the strong imaginings of my own mind, aided by the power of memory, still it is delightful, though mingled with sadness, and the impression which it leaves cannot but be salutary.

“It is sweet thus to commune with the departed—to call to our remembrance the forms, the virtues, the affections and the friendships of those who have left us for the world of spirits—to feel that though hid from our vision, they are at times, at least, present with us; that they see us, and know us, and feel deeply interested in our moral progress towards perfect purity, and bend upon us still that look of deep and sweet affection which so often met our enraptured gaze, as with them we walked these low vales where sorrows grow.

“Ah, brethren, such communings tend to break the charm with which the world holds us—reminds us of our relations to the Invisible and the Eternal—and quicken our desires and our efforts to be prepared for that world where we shall meet again the spirits of our departed friends—and where

Alike enamoured of one glorious form
Shall walk together to eternity;
And there, beneath the smile of full-eyed love,
Ever renew our sweet original joy.’

“Now, it is befitting that a place like this, solitary—removed from the bustle and the observation of the busy world; where nature puts on her most attractive forms, and shady groves invite to solemn musings—I say it is befitting that such a place should be chosen for our communings with the departed.

“To this sacred service let it henceforth be devoted. Here let the weeping mother, and the mourning father, the widowed wife, and the afflicted husband—the orphan child, and the bereaved friend, come, and wind their way in the lonely hours of evening, to the graves of their departed; call to remembrance their forms, their virtues and their affections; yield their minds to the impression of their presence, though invisible; and feel the impulse of their deep and holy love for them, to strengthen every virtuous resolution, and to quicken them in the pathway of holiness, until they are meet to join the spirits of the departed in the world of light.

“Again:—This ground becomes of peculiar interest to us, my hearers, because, in all human probability, it will be the place of our sepulchres.

“We cannot be wholly indifferent to the place where our dust shall at last repose. Admitting, as we undoubtedly ought, that it is a subject of far, far subordinate importance, to that of the safety and the rest of the soul:—admitting, that it is of no importance, as far as their re-collection in the resurrection body is concerned, whether the particles have flown, or into what new and various combinations they may have entered, seeing that it is as easy to the power of God to re-collect and re-organize, and raise the body to life and immortality, under one class of circumstances, as under another:—yet, admitting all this, it is natural to desire that our bodies should find some appropriate resting place, where our dust may sleep undisturbed till the resurrection morn.

“We wish for some retired solitary spot, far from the noise and tumult of the world; from its busy cares and pursuits, yet sufficiently accessible by those we leave behind, to secure their frequent visits, as our last retreat from the cares and the toils of life.

“There is, also, my brethren, a home feeling, even in regard to the grave. There is something repugnant to our minds, in the thought of being buried in the land of strangers, and among strange graves. It is natural to desire to lay our bones in our own country—to be gathered in death to our own people, and to have our dust mingle with kindred dust.

“We are told by the Apostle Paul, that by faith, Joseph, when he died, made mention of the departing of the children of Israel, and gave commandment concerning his bones.

“Joseph died in Egypt; but he knew that that was not to be the residence of his people. He foresaw, that after a long period of bondage, they would be released, and led to the possession of Canaan, the land of promise. He was anxious that his dust might not remain in idolatrous Egypt, but find its last repose in the land of promise, and mingle with the dust of his kindred. Accordingly, when he died, he took an oath of the children of Israel, that they would be faithful to his request—embalm his body after the manner of the Egyptians—preserve it among them a sacred trust—transmit it to their children, with the command, that it should be kept from sepulture until it could be committed to the tomb in his native land, amid scenes familiar to his youth, and with the graves of his brethren and his fathers.

"His request was saeredly complied with. Nearly two hundred years after, the bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel brought up out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem, in a pareel of ground whieh Jaebob bought of the sons of Hamer, the father of Sheehem.

"Here is an illustration of that home feeling which we have, even in regard to the final repose of our dust. It is right to cherish it. It has the sanction of Heaven.

"Jacob, when about to die in Egypt, charged his children, saying: 'I am to be gathered unto my people—bury me with my fathers, in the cave that is in the field of Ephron, the Hittite—in the eave that is in the field of Machpelah, which is in the land of Mamre. There they buried Abraham and Sarah, his wife. There they buried Isaac and Rebeeca, and there I buried Leah.'

"There is something gratifying to our feelings in visiting an old grave yard, and there see the father and the mother, with their children and their sires, lying side by side, and thus mingling the kindred dust of generations.

"It seems as though that absorbing selfishness of the human heart, which, in seeking its gratification, tears asunder the strongest ties of affection, and lays waste the most tender and endearing sympathies, has, in such instances, been arrested, and that their union, harmony and affection in life had been perpetuated even in death.

"These grounds, whieh we devote this day as the abode of the dead, are peculiarily favorable, both from their situation and their allotments, for cherishing these saered and endearing associations. They are safe from that rnde invasion, to which those places of interment, within the precincts of populous cities and towns are subject. Already the rapid increase of population in these have levelled many grave yards, and converted into places for dwellings, and marts of business and trade, the once silent abodes of the dead.

"But here we need not fear such encroachments. This spot will be safe from such rude invasions. Here we may bury our dead, without the fear that their dust shall be disturbed.

"According to the arrangements that have been made, each family will have its own allotment, and there, side by side, may sleep from generation to generation, the parents and their children. And when years and centuries, perhaps, have rolled away, the historian, who then records the names and the deeds of those who shall first be interred within these grounds, will be able to affirm—'And their graves remain with us even to this day.'

"Brethren, there is something more to be regarded than the gratification of the feelings of our nature, in this result. With what devotion do we now cherish the memorials of our fathers? And who would not feel that he was recreant to his most solemn duties, if he was not excited by the remembrance of their deeds, to emulate their virtues? Let us live worthy of our high privileges; let us faithfully do our duty to our God, to our country, and to the world; and our graves preserved inviolate, will speak to future generations, and urge them onwards in the upward career of piety, virtue and liberty.

"Another reason for so ordering the repositories of the dead, that they shall remain inviolate through succeeding ages, is, that few ties that bind us to our country and to our homes, are stronger than those that grow out of the graves of our departed friends and relations. It was this that touched the heart of Nehemiah, and clothed his countenance in sadness, though exalted to the highest rank in the Persian Court, when he heard of the desolation of Jerusalem. It was the place of his father's sepulchres; and gladly did he resign the honors, and the emoluments of his elevated position, to hasten to his afflicted country, and there labor to rebuild the walls of the city and the temple; restore the rites of their ancient worship, and guard the tombs of his ancestors from the rude invasion of hostile foes.

"Who does not feel the strength of this tie? The graves of our friends consecrate our country in our affections, and we linger with strong attachment around the place of our father's sepulchres.

"Let us seek to secure that attachment in the bosoms of coming generations. While we prepare a place for our sepulchres, let it be far away from the possibility of rude invasion—that our children's children down 'till the latest posterity, may walk among our tombs, and read our names engraven on the stones, and thus awaken in their hearts that strong affection for their country, which arises from its being the place of their father's sepulchre.

"Finally, my hearers, the grave yard is invested with peculiar interest, as it is the place that shall witness the final triumph of Christianity on earth.

"Careful as we may be in the selection, and much as we may adorn the place of burial, death and the grave are the trophies of sin—the sad memorials of an apostate race.

"It is not true that death is a debt we all owe to nature. God never made any sentient being to die. Death is an intruder into his system, and is allowed to come only as the fruit and penalty of transgression. Man was made for immortality; and immortality, in his whole nature, had been the reward of his obedience, had he preserved his integrity through the period of his probation. But he sinned, and thus sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death hath passed upon all men, for that all have sinned. Hence the universal, the instinctive dread of death. It is nature's great abhorrence: the monster from whose touch every living thing recoils. Hence he is crowned the King of Terrors, and the grave, his dark domain, is shrouded in gloom, and fraught with horrors.

"The great, the practical achievements of Christianity in behalf of those who yield their hearts to its sacred influence, are in redeeming them from the curse of the violated law—in restoring them to holiness—in taking away the sting of death, so that it shall come no longer clothed in terrors, but as the Angel of Peace, whom Jesus sends to take us to his arms; and, ultimately, in raising up the body from the sleep of death, and investing it with the beauty and vigor of immortal youth. For the purposes of judgment, as well as of mercy, all will be raised. They that have done good will come forth unto the resurrection of life, and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation. The resurrection of the body is reserved as the ultimate triumph of Christianity. It will be among the last acts of the mediatorial reign of Christ on earth.

"The hour is coming in which all that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and shall come forth. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump—for the trumpet shall sound—and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. For this corruption must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality, and then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written—Death is swallowed up in victory.

"The hour is coming. It is true, indeed, that though it is now more than eighteen hundred years since this announcement was first made, the dead still sleep in their graves; but we must remember that God is not slack concerning his promises, as some men count slackness: for with the Lord a thousand years is as one day, and one day as a thousand years.

"Yes, brethren, the hour is coming. The reign of death over our race may be perpetuated yet for a long time, for aught we know. We may descend into the silence of the sepulchre—generations after generations may here sleep beneath these sods, and the bleak winds of a hundred winters sweep over their solitary graves; but the hour will come; the voice of the Archangel and the trump of God will be heard. The dead will hear them. The sleepers will wake up from their long, long sleep, arise from their clay-clod beds, and come forth from the bosom of corruption, in the vigor of immortality.

"It is, my brethren, in the faith and hope of this event we dig our graves, and deposit our dead, and build their tombs. We plant with the dark cypress, the flowers that bloom in the spring, around the lowly dwellings of the departed: the one as the emblem of our sorrow, the other as the emblem of our faith and hope, that

"Spring will yet visit the mouldering urn;"
when,

"On the cold cheek of death, smiles and roses shall blend,
And beauty immortal awake from the tomb."

"Oh! it is, indeed, a sad office to close in death the eyes of those we love; to dress them in the drapery of the tomb, and then hear the cold earth rattling upon their coffins, as the grave shuts them from our vision.

"But it is sweet to lean, at their grave-stones, on the anchor of our hope—the promise of God—and realize that their spirits have escaped to purer worlds, and brighter scenes, while their dust rests in hope, beneath the watchful eye, and the restoring hand of Him who is the resurrection and the life, until the morn that shall claim its redemption from the tomb.

"And what, my brethren,

"What were life,
Even in the warm and summer light of joy,
Without those hopes, that, like refreshing gales
At evening from the sea, come on the soul,
Breaded from the ocean of eternity.'

"There, in Heaven alone is rest and peace. There the rude storms of earth are unknown. There sorrows never heave the bosom, and death never intrudes. There life and joy forever reign, and fill the soul with rapturous bliss. Thither may our hopes aspire, and by an humble walk of faith on earth may we be prepared to share in the blessings of the first resurrection, and in the joy of God's eternal kingdom."

After the address the assembly was dismissed by an excellent prayer from the Rev. GEORGE MCCARTNEY.

The first interment was Gen'l JAMES STEEL, aged 82 years, who was buried on the 1st day of October, 1845. The second was an infant child of the late Hon. WM. H. KEPNER, which was buried on the 23d of the same month.

These first two burials embracing the extremes of life.

PURCHASES OF ADDITIONAL LAND.

On July 5, 1849, the committee appointed to confer with Mr. HENRY HERR on the subject of a purchase of additional land for the use of the cemetery, made report, that they had performed that duty. That Mr. HERR had consented to convey to the association as much ground (6 acres and 152 perches,) lying between the cemetery and the lane leading to his house as will include his private burying ground at said lane, commencing at the line between him and Mr. SEALES and extending along the lane to said point, to be cut off by a line at a right angle with the line of the cemetery, at the rate of two hundred dollars per acre, for which bonds may be given, if the company wish, including the interest, payable in instalments within ten years, as may be agreed on; and the company are to give him a deed as a lot-holder in the association for as much ground within his present enclosure as will include the remains of the HERR family, and what may be considered necessary for the use of himself and family, by the side of the graves already there.

As early as the year 1847, Mr. JOHN SEALES, the owner of the land adjoining the cemetery on the south, made a donation, characteristic of himself, to the association of the land lying between the township road, from the east end of State street continued, and the run, the former boundary of the cemetery, containing, by estimate, about half an acre, for which he, with HARRIET his wife, executed a deed on the first of March, 1850; in consideration of which the association agreed to present him with two cemetery lots of his own selection. Mr. SEALES did not live to make the selection, but since his death Mrs. SEALES made choice of lots Nos. 130 and 142, in section O, and a deed was made to her accordingly.

In 1857, there was purchased from HENRY HERR, Sr., by JOHN H. BRIGGS, JACOB HOUSER and GEORGE ZINN, for the Presbyterian, Lutheran and German Reformed churches, three (3) acres, and one hundred and twenty-six (126) perches of land, to which, were removed the remains of the dead, interred in the old burying grounds, formerly used by said eongregations. This land has been enclosed in, and now forms part of the eemetary.

In 1866, the assoeiation purchased from HENRY HERR, Esq., seven acres and five perches of land lying between the eemetary and present line of Herr street, for the sum of $8,500.

In 1867, there was purchased from the estate of JOHN FORSTER, deeeased, one-fourth of an aere of land adjoining the entrance to the eemetary at State street, for the sum of $400; $150 of which was paid to CHAS. H. TUNIS, as compensation for eertain improvements he was erecting upon said ground for burning lime.

The total amount of land in the cemetery is now thirty acres and seventy-three perches.

The Board of Managers reserve to themselves the right, at all times, of adding to, altering or supplying the foregoing rules.

SUGGESTIONS TO LOT-HOLDERS.

The following suggestions are respectfully made to the owners of lots in the Cemetery, with the view of aiding them in preserving and beautifying, as well as protecting the improvements which love and affection have incited them to make.

Where interments have been made and no tomb stones erected, the lot-holder, by making a drawing of the lot on the back of the deed, showing the grave, with the name of the person interred, all difficulty will be obviated in the future of ascertaining the exact resting place of each one.

There is another suggestion which the managers feel it their duty to make to lot-holders; they trust it will be received as an evidence that they are anxious to unite in encouraging an improved taste in monumental sculpture. It has been the frequent remark of visitors—our own citizens, as well as strangers—that a monotony already begins to be apparent in the style and form of the improvements. Obelisk succeeds obelisk, &c., with only slight variations, and if this is continued, we shall see in time too dull an uniformity to strike the mind with agreeable sentiments.

This may be obviated by a little inquiry before ordering a monument or tomb stone, and by not always taking only the advice of the artisan, often himself willing to suggest the greatest bulk for the least money, and thus allowing marble to usurp the place of good taste.

Drawings, to a great extent and variety, have been made, whose adoption would materially obviate this too just criticism, and ultimately redeem the character of the place in this respect. A correct idea, expressed in marble, may be very beautiful, so long as it is unique; but by too frequent imitation and in too close proximity with its original, it may destroy the charm of the first, and ultimately raise feelings in the beholder the reverse of those desired. This hint, the managers have no doubt, will strike the friends of our Cemetery as just, and they feel that in expressing these views they have complied with the wishes of many friends of the Cemetery, themselves good judges and anxious for the perpetuation of the beauty of the place.

The fewer the number of pieces composing the marble monument, the better for its durability. Water entering fissures between marbles and there becoming frozen, destroys the structure. The foundations in all cases, it is of the utmost importance to have built of a suitable depth and solidity, and should always be laid in cement. Granite will undoubtedly be less liable to being defaced by time than marble, though when first erected, its appearance to most is not so fresh and attractive.

Lots and monuments will not take care of themselves. Frost, the weather, and the growth of trees, shrubs, briars, and weeds, in time, all tend to disfigure the grounds and to weaken and deface tombs, head-stones, and enclosures. The managers believe that many lot-holders would gladly insure their grounds and improvements against effacing and destroying influences. To such lot-holders they suggest the propriety of making provision by will or deed, for the preservation of monuments, enclosures, and grounds. This can be done by depositing or bequeathing in trust to the Cemetery Company a sum, such that the interest thereof applied from time to time shall be sufficient for the purpose. Money so deposited will constitute a separate and sacred fund, invested in like manner with the permanent fund of the Cemetery, and its income will be expressly devoted and applied to the special object designated by the proprietor.

INFORMATION FOR LOT-HOLDERS ON THE SUBJECT OF PLANTING.— Rose bushes and most plants of an herbaceous kind, rarely succeed well under the shade of the larger trees, and especially under the Pines. Roses require sun and air. They are commonly successful where they have been properly planted in a suitable exposure. The "daily" roses, and those which bloom throughout the summer and fall months, should be preferred. The new tribe of Remontantes, or Hybrid Perpetual Roses, between the Perpetual and Bourbon, possessing the beauty and fragrance of the former, with the growth and foliage of the latter, and which produce an abundance of flowers from June to November, and are perfectly hardy—are most desirable.

Lot-holders who have ground in the shade, will be most successful in planting, if they select the following shrubs and bushes: Rhododendron Maximum, or Mountain Laurel; Rhododendron Ponticum, or Rose Bay; Rhododendron Catawbiense, or Catawba Rhododendron; Portngal Laurel; Kalnia Latifolia, or Common Laurel. The above are of slow growth, beautiful in all their stages, long lived, and flower freely in dense shade.

Gordonia Pubescens, or Franklinia, a superb bush, bearing fragrant flowers in the fall, succeeds under moderate shade.

Hedera Helix, or Ivy. The Giant Ivy may with care be trained over the marble posts, wire, &c.

Ilex Aquifolium and Opaea, or Priekley-leaved, and Opaque-leaved Holly, very desirable, both as single trees and for hedges.

Auenba Japonica, or Japan Aneuba. This is a rare and desirable evergreen, its green leaves, variegated with angular yellow spots, are beautiful at all seasons.

Jasminum Officinale, or Common Jasmine.

Vinca Major and Minor, or large and small Peri-Winkle, evergreen, and very suitable for graves.

Buxns, or Box Bushes, and Trees, all the varieties.

Taxus, or Yew Trees, all the varieties—especially to be sought for.

Picea Balsamea, or American Balm of Gilead.

Thuja Occidentalis, or American Arbor Vitae, and its varieties. These become large trees, and may be planted where such are required, instances of which will be very rare. The Chinese variety is worthless after a few years growth, except when in a trimmed hedge.

Juniperis Communis, or Common Juniper; when this is regularly attended to, pruned and trimmed, it is very ornamental.

The Lily of the Valley, and Phlox, succeed and bloom in almost every situation, as does the Evergreen Honeysuckle.

The Golden Arbor Vitae, Upright Yew, Golden Yew, &c., are now much employed.

The Deutzia is a graceful bush and flowers freely in the early spring.

The Spireas are beautiful spring bloomers.

The Weigelia are a charming addition to large lots, and their masses of high colored flowers render them very desirable.

The Peonias are great in variety, and as beautiful as various.

The Magnolia, both white and blue, are well adapted to our Cemetery.

The managers trust that the above regulations and suggestions will be sufficient for the guidance of lot-holders and their friends. They request, that all will observe such a line of deportment, as is consistent with the solemnity of the place and the object to which it is devoted.
